

CONTINUED GROWTH

POPULATION EXPLOSION

Calgary's population doubled in the last 30 years and will double again in the next 30.

Calgary is growing by tens of thousands of people every year, with no sign of slowing down. By 2041, the Calgary Region will be home to 2.4 million people – roughly 41% of Alberta's population.

And that's good news. A robust economy drives population growth, and Alberta's economy has grown at double the rate of the Canadian average over the past three years, according to Alberta Treasury and Finance. People will be coming from all over Canada and all over the world, because our thriving economy creates jobs.

They'll all need somewhere to live.

BY 2041, THE CALGARY REGION
WILL BE HOME TO 2.4 MILLION PEOPLE.
